A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF NON-PERFORMING ASSETS OF SELECTED PUBLIC AND PRIVATE SECTOR BANKS IN INDIA

Dr. Munish Kumar Thakur^{1*}

¹Associate Professor of Commerce, Govt. Degree College Lad Bharol, Mandi, Himachal Pradesh.

ABSTRACT

A sound and healthy banking system is very important for an economy. Non-performing asset (NPA) is the best indicator to judge the health of the banking industry. Banking sector NPAs have become a major concern for the Indian economy. In this paper both gross NPA and Net NPA are considered. This paper is an attempt to correlate the NPA and ROA of Indian commercial Banks. The sample size is small. Two public sector banks and two private sector banks chosen for the study. Period for this study is 05 years (2020 to 2024). It is found that in the period of 05 years gross NPA% is higher in public sector bank i.e., PNB of 10.916% and lower in private sector bank i.e., HDFC Bank with 1.222% mean value. NPA of private sector banks are well under control. Correlation between Net NPA and Net Profit of all the banks show negative correlation. Negative correlation indicates that when NPA will rise then Net profit will be decreased. There is a negative correlation shown in all the selected public and private sector banks in between Net NPA % and Return on Assets (ROA)%. It means increase in NPA leads to decrease in ROA of the banks.

KEYWORDS: Non-Performing Asset, Public banks, Private banks, Net profit, Return on assets.

INTRODUCTION

Banking sector reflects the financial and economic condition of a country. Banking is the fundamental basis of economic, industrial and agricultural development of an economy. Banks accepts deposits, makes loans, pays cheque and provides financial services. Lending money to agriculture, industry, personal and housing etc. and receive deposits from individual, industrial and institutional customers is the principal function of a bank. Deposits involves no risk but lending money always involves huge risk because there is no certainty of repayment of loans.

In recent years the banks have become very cautious while lending money because of fear of rising Non-Performing assets. Asset (Loan) advances becomes non- performing Asset when it ceases to generate income for bank. If income on asset remains overdue or unpaid for a period of 90 days or more that asset (loan) becomes NPA (Mohanty, 2021). NPA may arise because of defaults on the part of borrowers and bad lending practices of banks to favour their near ones and friends.

Categories of Loan Assets

Banks are required to classify loan assets into four categories

- I. Standard Assets
- II. Sub-standard Assets
- III. Doubtful Assets.
- IV. Loss Assets

Standard Assets: Standard assets is one which is not a NPA

Sub-standard Assets: Substandard assets are those which have been classified as NPA for a period less than or equal to 12 months.

Doubtful Assets: Doubtful assets are those which have remained NPA for more than 12 months.

Loss Assets: Loss assets are those where loss has been identified by the bank authority, auditors or the
